Gentlemen for his firmers in maintaining the superintending power of the Governor-General of Bengal over the interior prediencies: The House, he faid, must feel the necessity of naking the subordinate governors dependent upon Bengal the infolent, contemptions, and almost rebellious conduct of Lord Mactiting, la different the orders of Mr Hattings, clearly demonstrated the necessity of taking such steps, as would in suture secure to the Governor-General the obedience of all the officers in the subordinate settlements.

Mr. Dempster said he was forey he was not in the Honse the day before, when the business of Sir Elijah Impey was mentioned. He never approved of the recor of that excellent Judge; but still would not say that he had acted right in accepting an office under the Governor-General, as being contary to an Act of Parliament. However, he would recommend to the Right Hon. Gentleman the propriety of allowing any one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of Judgesture of Bengal to cept of the office of Judge of the Suder Dewanny Adaulet. Accord g to the confruction of the act under which the Supreme Court of dicature had been established, no case relative to the revenue of Benjudicature had been established, no case relative to the revenue of Bengal was cognizable in that Court: The Suder Dewamp Adaulet; he understood, was a Court of Appeal; in which the Governor-General had presided, till Sir Elijah Impey had been prevailed upon to accept it. Now, if he was well informed, revenue questions in Bengal were so connected with private property, that it was necessary a person conversant with the law should preside in that Court: In our settlements in India, every landholder paid some tribute or quite-tent to the Company; and this was the reason why evenue laws, which in this country affect only a few, affect almost every person in India: And though an English lawyer cannot be faid to be the best judge of Indian laws, till he would learn the principles of them much sooner than a Governor-General, lawyer cannot be faid to be the best judge of Indian laws, still he would learn the principles of them much sooner than a Governor-General, whose time is sufficiently taken up with other matters. Mr Dempster thought the Suder Dewanny Adales Court and wished it to be administered with every advantage to the natives, and that there might be a clause in the new bill to empower Sir Elijah Impey, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to accept the office of Judge of the Suder Dewanny Adalet Court.

Mr Ptt taking no notice of what the two last speakers said,
Mr For observed that the bill was of a considerable length, and as it would not be ready from the press before Monday, he thought the time too short for considering it at large: Some parts of it indeed, seemed to meet his opiniou, but he would not pledge himself to support it in general: He also wished that its commitment, which he did not mean to oppose, might be deferred, was agreed to, and it was underflood that the fecond reading should take place on Tuesday. Mr Pitt then moved that a sufficient number of copies of the bill be printed for the use of the Members, which being carried, the House adjourned.

From the London Papers, July 10.

I O N D O N.

Letters from Amiterdam, dated July a declare, that addices had been received from the Governor of Batavia, purporting, that the negociations for a peace between the English and Tippoo Saib did not promise so much success as some time since was expected; that Chief charging the Company with a breach of the treaty at Mangalore, by the surprizing and taking prisoner his ally, the Rannee of Cannanore. Mr Huddieston, with other Commissioners, by the above accounts, had proceeded to Setnigapatum, in hopes of settling this matter in an amicable manner; but both parties were endeavouring to get their armies into the field, so as to be prepared for any event.

By the same channel we are told, that Meer Moud Cawn had renewed hostilities on the Cannatic side of the Gauts, near Collispake, ed hostilities on the Campatic side of the Gauts, near Collispake, and had feized the revenues of the neighbouring diffricts.

It must be expected, that the taxes of this year should be subjects of confideration, as the burthens of the people are very heavy. All com-pulsory taxes are odious, and the Minister who imposes them, is either in a desperate situation, or his invention is not tertile. The tax on will create more diffatisfaction and ill will than any which has windows will create more diffatisfaction and ill will than any which has been imposed for twenty years, and because it is compulsory. The following taxes would have been productive, and inflead of oppressing would have footbod the easity of those who paid them: A tax on wearing hair-powder; noton the p uder itself; for an advance on the price of the powder would insite imaggling. A tax on wearing watches, but not in watches triemfelves. Millions might be raised by the gratification of vanity in onferring a distinction by the use of a taxed commodity, where a few shousands on the commodity itself would occasion a rebellion. The financiers of this country do not understand this principle; nor indeed are they acquainted with the general doctrine of taxation, though they sland in need of it more than any people in the world.

A proposal has been made to Mr Pitt, to lay a tax of 5 l. per ann. on every dealer in tea; and wholly to remit every duty on tea; except an infand excife of 5 l. per cent.

The Minister has found, that almost the whole House of Commons were averse to the coal tax, and therefore has prudently declined dividing against his altherenes, which might possibly have been attended with dangerous consequences to the present Administration.

Some of the other new taxes will be opposed, in particular that on windows and printed linens, but it is probable they will pass with the others. That on gautes and ribbons are likely to be changed into a Lord Dalrymple, his Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary at the Court of Warfaw, arrived in town on Tucfday night, and on Wedner-day was at the levee, and had a long conference with the King.

The Dutch are still alarmed at the movements of the Prussans, who are forming a camp of twenty thousand men at Cleves, in East Friefland, within two miles of the Dutch territories, and near to their garrifon of Nemuguen.

The Dutch are also alarmed on the fide of Flanders; they have augmented their troops in Maestricht to eight thousand men.—The Emperor has marched into Brahast and Flanders three times that number of troops. Notwithstanding these hossile appearances, those differences will probably be soon accommodated, as the Hollanders must comwith the terms demanded, being in no capacity to reful either of these great powers.

In expense of the truthy on the part only of Sir Cecil Wray and Lord Hood, amounted on Thursday night last to 1000l. and if the business is to proceed in the fame slow manner, it is no difficult matter to judge what it will amount to fix months hence; it being 251, a day.

Mr Pitt now brought it his bill for the government, &c. of the ket Theatre, he was attacked by three ruffians near Cecil-tourt, St ket Theatre, he was attacked by three ruffians near Cecil-court, St. Martin's-lane. They feized him and demanded his money, which he gave them, and begged they would not use him ill. Not contented with that, they frarched every pocket, and found a gold watch in his fob, the chain of which was fecreted. On this they abufed and threatened him with horrid imprecations, when Mr. Linton begged they would not take his watch from him; but paying no regard to his intreaty, and Mr. Linton having the chain in his hand, and one of the villains hold of the watch, a feuflle enfued, when a fecond, in order to force Mr. Linton to let go his hold, flabbed him with a large knife below the ribs, on the right fide of his body. who never offered to stop them, but ian and secured Mr Linton, who was by this time bleeding in a most shocking manner, and by this means the murderers made their escape up Rose-street, Covent-Garden, into Longacre. Mr Linton had just time to relate the circum stance and describe their persons before he expired. He has left a wife big with child, and two children. He now lies in the bone-house of St Martin's Church, and the Churchwardens of the parish, to brieg the offenders to justice, have offered a reward of twenty guineas for each of them.

In the forenoon, Nixon, supposed to be one of the persons who perpetrated the above robbery and murder, was apprehended in Vine-ftreet, St Martin's lane. Another fulpicious person is likewise in cu-stody; they were both examined last night by the sitting Magistrates, when very strong circumstances appearing against them, they were committed for surther examination.

Entrate of a letter from London, July 10.

"We are credibly informed, that the oppression under which the American Loyalits at present groan, does not arise from a defire in their countrymen to tyrannize, but from an absolute scarcity of money.

"It is thought that, instead of the tax upon coals, which for the present is laid aside, the Minister means to Lay one upon the artificial compositions which are used for the ornamental parts of architecture.

"Your countryman, the celebrated Congress Dostor, upon his coming here, declared, that his chief design was to collect money so support of the college of which he is President. It is now evident to every body, that this is only a specious pretext, and that his principal motive is to induce people to emigrate to America, and to people a vasit tract of tentitory, which he has purchased in the back settlements of New Jersey. It is not to be doubted, but many will be induced to accept of the proposals which he will make; but if they were wise, they would treat him at the gentlemen of the New York Cosserhouse here did lately; in short, Sir, they would jostle him out of doors.

The principal bankers wished to have had the whole loan in their hands. They are outwitted, and their referentment is keen. They have, therefore, used every endeavour to lower the funds, and to convince the Public, that their brethren have made a difadvantageous bargain with the Minister. It is imagined, however, that the payment of the dividend on the 3 per cents, and of the other funds, which will take the dividend on the 3 per control of the market, as by that place next week, must have the effect to raise the market, as by that means upwards of three millions will be placed in the hands of the stockholders. Some people likewise conjecture, that considerable sums will be remitted from Holland, as the troubles which threaten that country will naturally incline the Dutch to lay out their money in the English funds as in a place of security.

"The good effects arising from the reports of the Commissioners of Accounts, appear in the diligence and assignity that now take place, is more department of finance. There have been more accounts that y department of fluance. There have been more accounts that affed the Auditors of the Imprest, for this last half year, than have passed the Auditors of the Imprest, for this last half year, than the oldest clerks in the Treasury every remembered to have known before, during the course of a twelve-month. While the continuation of the Board of Accounts firikes an awe on those who are concerned in the Board of Accounts Irrikes an awe on those who are concerned in the different offices of the Revenue, new lights thrown out by these gentlemen will not fail to give univerfal faisiaction." appointment, as mentioned in car laft, a hearing in the cate of M'lver, and M'Callum. Mr John M'Laurin opened their cafe in a very learned and ingenious pleading. He was followed by Mr Alexander Wight. Mr Archibald Campbell appeared in support of the interlocutors of the Judge Admiral. After which the Court adjourned the further hearing of counfel till this day. The Court accordingly met at two oclock afternoon, when Mr Solicitor General addressed the Court very ably on the same side with Mr Campbell; as did Mr Robert Macintosh in reply for the culprits. This day, George Lawrie journeyman-flesser, Peter Macgregor a gentleman's servant, James Paul journeyman-tanner, and William Anderson travelling merchant, were served with indictments at the instance of his Majetly's Advocate, to stand trial before the High Court of Justiciary, for being concerned in the late riots at Canonmills.—

We formerly mentioned, that Anderson had been sentenced by the Magistrates to be whipt through the city on Wednesday the 11st instead of the contract of for returning from banishment. This sentence, however, they this day remitted, on account of his having been served with the indictment above mentioned.

Question I. Is there any difference between a poll-tax, or tax upon heads, and a tax upon hats?

Answer. None, until we be to far reduced as not to be able to buy a hat for our head.

Question 2. Is it for the interest of this country that the manufacture of gauzes, which brings into Scotland half a million sterling a-year, be ruined?

Answer. The answer is obvious; yet the heavy tax proposed on ganzes has a manifest tendency to ruin the manufacture.

Question 3. Will not the women, by these taxes on gauzes, printed studies, ribbons, &c. pay ten t mes more than the men by the rax on hats?

Answer. Yes.

Question 4. Is this dispraportion contrived, because the women are ten
